

Fluxcard.com

Original Content Articles

All content automatically monitored for theft. Any infringements, spidering or other copying is prohibited, legal action will be taken against any such behaviour.

© Fluxcard.com 2010

REINTRODUCTION OF CYBER OR INTERNET LAWS

In today's world internet plays a very important role in almost everyone's life. Its connectivity to the world not only helps us to learn new things but also buying things online and making friends. And not only this, internet also helps to earn money through Internet businesses. There are many online jobs also which makes many individual to earn money sitting in the comfort of their home. There are online dictionaries, libraries which is very useful for students to refer. Slowly and steadily it has become an integral part of each and every individual's life. Even small children enjoy their favorite games in internet!!

The connection of thousands and millions of computers with servers all over the world creates an internet. So, you cannot point a particular location or existence of the internet. These devices allow you to connect with the internet and increases accessing with the people around the world. No one person individually can control the internet. Due to these positive features, people are opened to novel opportunities. Internet has become a medium of exchanging information. Specially students find it very useful for their research and find mostly all the information in the internet which they need. Individuals planning a holiday trip can find unlimited information about the place they want to visit and its culture with just a mouse click, which is known as browsing in terms of internet parlance.

Not only students or common people, internet is very useful for businessmen who want to start new business. You can choose the venue, your advertisements about the needs of your business items etc through internet with websites which are online. There are many sites which help you to interact with other people, their interests etc. through online chatting or blogs. The online chatting term has demolished the caste or creed.

As there are two sides of the same coin, internet also has some disadvantages along with advantages. Some people misuse internet for theft stealing confidential and personal information about other individuals, child pornography is another menace where under-age children are made to do sexual acts, using credit cards for transactions after obtaining them fraudulently etc. So, in order to control these crimes it is necessary to implement stringent laws to control these cyber or internet crimes. The main purpose of this law is to combine new rule with the existing rule. As new laws and guidelines are introduced to safeguard internet crimes, it is also becoming a very alarming task due to the difficulties of internet. So, the reasons for an advantageous internet are the same for the crimes of internet and thus, it become difficult to control the crimes with cyber or internet laws. So, right now the law is in the infant stage and will develop along with the internet.

But many people think that internet itself will find its own way to safeguard itself and mostly people who are affected by these crimes just do not want to wait and stress themselves out to implement a strict law against these crimes.

Fluxcard.com

Original Content Articles

All content automatically monitored for theft. Any infringements, spidering or other copying is prohibited, legal action will be taken against any such behaviour.

© Fluxcard.com 2010